I have known Ann Marie and Suzanne from 'High Horizons' since they were performing in 'Brookside' on Channel Four. Even then, they were prepared to squeeze into busy schedules support for young people and offer advice and workshops.

Since forming 'High Horizons', I have repeatedly employed them to deliver workshops on a range of issues that have supported our PSHE, Citizenship and Arts Curriculum.

As a successful specialist school for the Performing Arts, we have a responsibility to provide our learners with quality experiences. A key reason why I use 'High Horizons'. They are professional, good humoured, relate excellently to all students and are very imaginative in their approach to the process of learning. Students thoroughly enjoy the time they spend with the girls and consistently remark on how much they gain from the experience.

They are also highly flexible and are prepared to work with you to create programmes that suit your need.

I highly recommend them to anybody looking for a value for money innovative way to explore the curriculum
